Gifts in Kind

Gifts in kind are a donation of property other than cash (e.g. a gift of art). These types of gifts will require the evaluation of an independent appraiser for tax receipt purposes. Certain types of gifts such as gifts of time or service, payment of admission or membership fees, or gifts of little or no value are not eligible for a charitable tax receipt.

Qualifying Gifts in Kind

- Voluntary donations of goods made with no expectation of goods or services return
- Donations of inventory of a business. An invoice must be included for the fair market value of the donated merchandise. Note: the business must include the fair market value of the good in its sales revenues.
- Artists donations – A tax receipt may be issued to artists who wish to donate artwork of their own creation. The fair market value must be established by a qualified appraiser. A tax receipt may be issued for the fair market value quoted in the appraisal.
- Personal donations of goods valued under $1000. Whenever possible, donors should issue invoices for personal donations of goods.
